DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's Remark's, filed February 2, 2010 has been entered and carefully considered. Claims 6-8 are pending.
2. Rejections Claims 6-8 are rejected under U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lodwick (Patent # 6,978,299 B1) in view of Parry (US Application #2003/0086124 A1) are withdrawn because the applicants' remarks filed on February 2, 2010 have been considered and are persuasive.
3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 6-8 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

6. Claims 6-8 are rejected under U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lodwick (Patent # 6,978,299 B1) in view of Qiao (US # 7,177,043 B2)

As to Claim 6,

Lodwick teaches a network printer connected to a network for printing a document in the Internet by a user, comprising: (Lodwick teaches a apparatus that enables a user to obtain print jobs over a communication network, see column 3 lines 1-7)

- a keypad unit for inputting a number from the user; (Lodwick teaches a keypad is used for inputting a PIN to select a particular print job, see column 4 lines 7-13)
- first retrieve means for sending said inputted number via Internet to a first server, which translates said number into the information of receiving a document (Lodwick teaches a keypad that is used for inputting a PIN to select a particular print job, see column 4 lines 7-13. The PIN can be used to access a print job from the server, see column 4 lines 7-10.)
- print means for printing said received document. (Lodwick teaches a printer, see column 3 lines 18-20)

Lodwick does not teach a second server that sends said information via the internet to said printer.

However, Qiao teaches an internet printing system that utilizes a proxy server and a print server to print a print job, see column 2 lines 47-58. Qiao teaches that the print job is sent to the printer via the internet through the proxy server, see column 3 lines 28-36. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to combine Lodwick in view of Qiao because a proxy server would allow users of an organization to print from a remote location, see column 1 lines 62-66.

As to Claim 7 (which depends on Claim 6)

Lodwick in view of Qiao further teaches the network printer,

- said information of receiving a document from a second server via Internet is at URL format, (Parry teaches that the web printer access email print job through a URL link, see column 12 lines 25-30)

As to Claim 8 (which depends on Claim 6)

Lodwick in view of Qiao further teaches the network printer

- wherein said information of receiving a document from a second server via Internet further includes the title of said document, and said network printer further comprising: a display unit for displaying the title of said document, and prompting the user for confirmation before printing said document. (Lodwick teaches a visual interface, which is able to identify the print job by file name.

This allows the user to confirm that the document being printed is correct, see column 5 lines 7-13)
